Interior Designer

05.09.2008

Berlin-based Coordination is seeking for experienced interior designer to work on creative projects worldwide:

Our studio undertakes projects in interior, retail, exhibition, furniture and lighting. These projects are always seeking to innovate through materials, technology, typology and form with a strong emphasis on cutting edge aesthetics.

The ideal candidate will have excellent design, detailing and advanced technical drawing skills. Proven skills with the programs Illustrator, InDesign, Vectorworks, Cinema 4D, and Photoshop are essential. Solid Works or Pro Engineer would be an advantage. English to mother-tongue level along with a will to learn German is a must. An affinity to China or a chinese background would be appreciated.

Ideally you will have experience in providing interior solutions for commercial and residential buildings, including offices, where projects range from new installation to complete refurbishment of services and finishes within an existing shell and core, including structural alterations.

You possess at least three years post qualification experience as an interior designer and will have the confidence to work closely with the client combining good presentation and management skills together with a good understanding of detail and construction drawings. You will be adept in the interpretation of planning and building regulations and will have a good understanding of detail and layout drawings. With excellent communication skills you will be happy to join our very social and young international team.

COORDINATION conceives exhibitions, creates design environments and develops products in the fields of Fashion, Art, Design, Corporate and Culture. COORDINATION which employs approx. 18 people was founded in 2004 by the architects Tilman Thürmer and Jochen Gringmuth and by the designer Flip Sellin. COORDINATION is internationally active and is currently involved with projects in China, Kazakhstan and Great Britain.
