Product Designer

05.09.2008

Berlin-based Coordination is seeking for a product designer to work on various creative projects.

Our studio undertakes projects in interior, retail, exhibition, furniture and lighting. These projects are always seeking to innovate through materials, technology, typology and form with a strong emphasis on cutting edge aesthetics.

The ideal candidate will have excellent design, detailing and advanced technical drawing skills. Proven skills with the programs Illustrator, InDesign, Rhino, and Solid Works are essential. English to mother-tongue level along with a will to learn German is a must. An affinity to China or a chinese background would be appreciated.

Ideally you will have experience in developing and engineering products for commercial and residential spaces, including the supervision of batch productions and edition work.

You will possess at least three years post qualification experience as a product designer with a good understanding of detail and construction drawings. Good research skills and a natural urge to monitor the global design activities are key to this position. With excellent communication skills you will be happy to join our very social and young international team.
